

OFFERING THE WORLD

You live in the home of your dreams, escape to a pied-a-terre periodically, and rush to your second home as often as you can and you also want a vacation that is special and memorable.

For over 20 years, Villas of the World has catered to those who want a unique housing experience when they are on vacation. Sophisticated individuals today want more than just a nice hotel. They want privacy and exceptional service. Discriminating travelers want to enjoy the seclusion of their own fully-staffed get away. Alfredo Merat, President of Villas of the World, has traveled the globe to find just the right properties that fit this description including Mick Jagger's Mustique Villa in the Bahamas, Jane Seymour's recently refurbished castle in Bath, England and Richard Branson's private Necker Island in the Caribbean.

Prudential Douglas Elliman has entered into an exclusive arrangement with Villas of the World to offer this service to our customers. Now in addition to helping clients find the perfect residential property, we can help them find the ideal place to vacation. "We pride ourselves on satisfying our customers' every real estate need including now their desire for luxury accommodations when on vacation," said Dottie Herman, President and CEO of Prudential Douglas Elliman.

"This partnership will provide Prudential Douglas Elliman with access to the world," Mr. Merat said. "It will be the only company that can help the avid traveler or investor find a villa anywhere in the world for a week or a lifetime." In addition to luxury vacation, the company specializes in destination weddings, corporate events and real estate sales and provides consulting and marketing services to property owners.
